I've nicknamed this 'Catch Cash'. 'His strong arms encircled her and held her a few inches from his body. His touch was a caress, she felt the desperation of his yearning' ... and there's more, much more. He is Joey Bud, the boy with no past. She is Letty, the daughter of the rich landowner, who loved dashing Joey at first sight and is desperate to give him respectability enough to be worth marrying by proving that his grandfather is the demented old fool (once a Harvard professor) who roams the Wyoming hills seeking his long lost grandson ... and so on. Romantically-minded girls can find similar, if not better, reading material in magazines. Don't be fooled that the author previously wrote My Friend Flicka.
